Advertise in THE STAR.

We propose to make THE STAR an advertising medium unexcelled in Alachua county.

THE STAR will be mailed to you every Tuesday and Friday for only one dollar a year. Subscribe at once.

We hope our farmers will make an abundance of corn and hay this season for it will keep money at home.

We have been having some warm weather but it has been the kind for gathering corn and cotton and making hay.

Subscribe for THE STAR and have your friends subscribe. We promise you your money's worth. Only one dollar for a year. Do it now.

In spite of anything the politicians may say about it, the South will regard the question of white supremacy as the most important issue in the campaign.

We are sending out a large number of sample copies of this issue of THE STAR, which we trust will be carefully read and that we will be favored with many subscriptions.

THE STAR hopes for the election of Joseph W. Folk of Missouri, Democratic candidate for Governor. As prosecuting attorney for the district of St. Louis he fearlessly unearthed many frauds and "boodling" schemes and, as a result, a number of politicians are now serving "time" behind the bars. THE STAR says, give us more Folks.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Referring to the announcement made by Mr. D. E. Godwin in THE STAR of Friday, September 30, 1904, I bargained for THE TWICE-A-WEEK STAR, including the printing outfit, paper, subscription list, advertising patronage, etc. Since the above announcement was made, I have concluded in order to run the paper properly—in an up-to-date manner, that it would seriously conflict with my other business interests, and I have therefore transferred the same to the Pepper Publishing Company of this city, who will continue the paper and carry out the subscription contracts. Please bear in mind: all persons in arrears for subscriptions to THE STAR, will pay the same to the Pepper Publishing Company, Gainesville, Florida, and not to Mr. D. E. Godwin or me.

The undersigned is responsible for what is contained in this issue of THE STAR. Respectfully,
W. L. HILL.
Gainesville, Fla., Oct. 4, 1904.

DUTY OF JURORS.

Each year at the appointed time, the board of County Commissioners places the required number of names of persons to serve as jurors in a box provided for that purpose. The law says that in addition to certain other qualifications the persons so selected as jurors shall be only such as the members of the board know, or have good reason to believe, are of approved integrity, fair character, sound judgment and intelligence. The names of the men drawn from that box bear the stamp of approval of our board of County Commissioners. These men take the most solemn oath written in the English language when they are drawn to serve on the Grand Jury. They pledge their sacred word of honor not to present any man for envy, hatred or malice, nor leave any man unprotected for love, fear, favor affection, reward or the hope thereof.

Jurors should do their duty. Good government, the supremacy of law and the well being of society depends largely upon the purity and strength of our jury system. Let them be equal to the confidence placed in them by the men who selected them to serve and whatever shall come before them for investigation, let them ever hold fast to the solemnity of the oath they have taken.

BUILD FACTORIES.

Our farmers depend to a great extent on their home towns to buy what they have to sell, and it is the duty of the business men to so invest their money that a market may be found for at least all the staple crops grown. The cities of Georgia and South Carolina did not prosper when they merely exchanged their goods for the cotton of their territory; their profits were consumed by the cost of transportation and handling when the cotton went to New England and the cloth shipped back. But the towns grew rich as soon as they invested in mills and factories and the country had more money to spend because the profits remained at home.

Within the next few months there will be thousands of bales of fine cotton marketed in this section. We believe a mill or factory located at some convenient point in this county would prove a paying investment and put a large sum of money in circulation. We would like to see a company organized with sufficient capital to give the matter a trial, believing it would prove a success.

We also believe a syrup refinery would prove a paying investment, as, from what we can learn, they are paying elsewhere. There is no better syrup than "Florida Cane" when it is properly refined and there is a growing demand for it. The lands of Alachua county are adapted to the growing of cane and scientific farming should reduce the cost of production to such an extent as to make this a very remunerative crop.

Wake up, fellow citizens, and let us build a cotton mill and a syrup refinery before another year. Let the farmers know that they will be able to find a market at home for their cotton and cane and larger crops will be planted for another year.

We will be glad for those interested to express their views through THE STAR.

Real Estate.

If you have city property (improved or unimproved)—farming, truck, pasture, timber or phosphate lands for sale, and me full description and lowest prices, terms, etc. I can find you a buyer. FERDINAND BAYER, Attorney at Law, Gainesville, Fla.

LAWLESSNESS.

It is a fact beyond contradiction that lawlessness must be suppressed if we expect the accumulation of capital and industries in the South. People are naturally reluctant to locate where they have the least suspicion that life and property are not absolutely safe. If the people of the South expect to develop their section to anything like its possibilities they have got to rise up in righteous indignation against the frequent outbreaks of lawlessness which are reacting against a normal and reasonable progress along all lines. It is difficult, indeed, to persuade a capitalist or a desirable homeseeker to locate in a section where he believes respect for and obedience to the laws are at a low ebb and even from a plain business standpoint, from a standpoint of dollars and cents, not to speak of the higher and better motives of justice, the citizens of the South must take a firm and united stand against the spirit of lawlessness which leads to industrial stagnation and moral retrogression.

A united sentiment against lawlessness will do much to lessen it. There should be no leniency, either by press or courts, hereafter to put down lawless acts of men.

Chairman Cortelyou has announced that the railroads of Indiana have decided that they will throw their influence toward carrying the State for the Republicans, as they fear that the Democratic candidate for governor, Mr. John Kern, "would regulate" them. At last the mask is off. All this "slaying of trusts," followed so quickly by promises of not "running amuck," has been just one more trick of the astute Republican politicians to hoodwink and mislead the people. And the reason given by the railroads for supporting the Republican ticket shows conclusively that they believe the Democrats are in earnest about this trust question. —Savannah News.

Only a few days remains to qualify as a voter in the national election. The choice of the people for the various State and county officers was determined in the primaries recently held and it now becomes the duty of each and every Democrat who has not already done so to qualify himself for participation in the general election to be held in November. At this election the State officers, presidential electors, congressmen and county officers will be voted for and it is most desired that there be a full vote recorded.

SATAN'S SOLILOQUY.

One night as the devil sat musing alone, In the midst of his cozy warm fire, Trying to figure the difference in guile 'Tween a thief and an all-around liar, His memory turned to the scenes of his youth And his eyes filled with boiling hot tears; So he turned to his ledger and turned to a page, Dated back about six thousand years. "I suppose," he exclaimed, as he glanced through the book, "I'm doing the best that I can, For my business denotes a continual increase. Ever since the creation of man, I've cribbed a good harvest for six thousand years, And should be content with the yield, And give my opponent permission to have The gleanings I leave in the field."

"I've gathered a very diversified crop Of merchants and lawyers galore; I've bound politicians in bundles until The ends of my fingers are sore. I've fiddlers, gamblers and insurance men; I've murderers, forgers and liars, I've filled up my furnace with green poplars, 'Till they actually put out the fires."

"I've railroad conductors and doctors to spare, Horse traders and preachers to spend, Republicans, Democrats, Tories and Whigs, And two or three newspaper men. But there is one class I'm happy to say, Can never gain entrance here; Their souls are so dirty I'm sure that they would Demoralize hell in a year."

"I refer to that 'thing' neither human nor beast— The carrion crow of the world— Who never is happy unless he can feast On the fame of an innocent girl. A million of years in my warmest of rooms His flanders would never atone; So I gave him a match and advised him to start A select little hell of his own."
